THE MURDER OF CAPTAIN MOORE IN COLUMBUS.

The Details of the Fatal Affair in Which He Met His Death at the Hands of Harry Holland—Other Men of Interest From All Parts of the State.

The Columbus Enquirer-Sun gives the following account of the horrible homicide which occurred Wednesday night, in which Captain Moore, of Columbus, was killed by Harry Holland, of "The difficulty occurred at about 11 o'clock, in Middlebrook bar, opposite the Purry house.

Ex-Policeman Sid Lloyd, who tends tondo bar, said it about 9 o'clock Captain Moore, Harry Holland and Dave Bishop were in the bar. The first time he says, that attracted his attention was the fast talk the parties were talking above the ordinary tone of voice. He saw that a difficulty was brewing and sent for the police. Policeman Cox stepped in front of him and took him away. Mr. Cox says that Holland promised him that he would not kill him, and the (Cox) summoned him to appear at mayor's court this morning.

"Mr. Cox states that in about three-quarters of an hour later Captain Moore received with a pistol in his hand. He asked Mr. Moore to go to his room, but he declined and entered the bar. Mr. Lloyd says that when Captain Moore entered he leaned against the counter and engaged in a conversation with a man named Terry from Hill country. After he had been talking a while Mr. Lloyd says Holland and Bishop entered again with pistols in hand and took positions on the opposite side of the room, which is very small. Captain Moore looked up and saw them and said to Holland "You are the men who struck me," and raised his pistol. Lloyd said that Holland raised his immediately, and that they both fired almost simultaneously. Captain Moore shot only once. Holland three or four times and Bishop once. Holland and Bishop left the house at once and Captain Moore staggered into the back room and was placed upon a lounge by parties who were in the house.

"The shooting occurred about 11 o'clock, and two hours afterward. He found that there had been taken effect. Two entered the right side about six inches below the nipple and an inch apart, and one struck on the stomach. The balls were all extracted from the left side, two of them the same distance apart as when they opened.

"Captain Moore collapsed immediately after being shot, and lingered until 12:30 o'clock, when he died, surrounded by friends and his brother, Mr. M. M. Moore. His remains were taken to his brother's residence and will be buried from there at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

"Holland crossed to the other side of the river immediately after the shooting and has not been arrested. On report last night said that he was struck on the right arm and another that the ball only passed through his clothing. Some say there were only five shots fired, while others say there were six.

"Harry Holland, who fired the fatal shots, is a son of Colonel J. L. Holland, deceased, and a nephew of Colonel J. T. Holland, member of the Alabama legislature for Lee county. Captain Moore was near this city, and has resided here and is still near all his life. He was a photographer by profession, was marshal of Columbus for several years. He is forty-five years of age, and leaves no family. He was a brother of Mr. M. M. Moore of this city, Mr. James B. Moore, of Cameron, Texas, and Mr. George T. Moore, of Gadsden, Alabama, and his mother resides at Motts mills.

America Recorder: Although but little is being said about it, the work on the A. T. & S. railroad is progressing rapidly. The grading is practically completed, a distance of twenty-five miles from the city, and Captain Moore is now busy at work on the bridges and in getting out of the way. The appearance of the road makes it look like business will be done the least doubt but that it will be finished as soon as possible.

On the contrary notwithstanding, The road will be in operation before the next crop comes in, and will have the benefit of the next crop through bales of cotton to this place next fall.

Jonesboro News: Mr. W. M. Hynd spent a day or two at "Uncle Tom" Crawford's, hunting last week, and the first morning of his hunt, and before he got out of sight of the house he came across a drove of blackbirds and straightaway barged into them. After the smoke of his gun had cleared away, he could see only falling in every direction for yards around.

He and two or three others then went into the bushes and picked up a half bushel of blackbirds, and a rabbit, which he had killed at one shot, and didn't get all the birds either, so Mr. Hynd says, and he refers any who may doubt to "Uncle" Tom Crawford?

ATLANTA, DECEMBER 26, 1884.

INDICATIONS South Atlantic states, 1 a.m.—Cloudy weather, and local rains, stationary temperature in northern portion, slight fall in southern portions.

Mr. TILDEN will attend the inauguration ceremonies of President-elect Cleveland. Mrs. Hayes' husband won't be there.

The severity of the present winter is unusually marked in the western states. The heaviest of snow drifts has wholly impeded travel on the Northern Pacific railroad.

There is much quiet comment in political circles in this state on the greediness of some states who proposed to use the offices they hold to get federal positions and if they fail in the latter to hold on to the former. Somebody will get hurt at this foolishness yet!

JAY GOULD says there will soon be a revival of business, but still he is organizing to reduce the pay of the men who are working his immense lines of roads in the west. There will be a revival of a desire to shake him up whenever he begins his reductions, and we wish he would hurry up and do it.

FARMING IN FRANCE.

The Constitution has presented many a picture of farm life, but none to equal that which we take from the New York Sun this morning.

The article is the revelations of a French farmer. We find him standing on his little farm of 150 feet by 2,000 feet, and complaining that it is too large. Part of it he has rented out, and he will divide it among his children at his death. His crops are planted in strips that are measured by feet, and that make his farm look like a piece of carpet.

On this diminutive patch he supports his family, goes to all the fêtes, and puts 500 francs, or $100, in bank every year. This, in spite of the fact that he buys his firewood by the pound, paying one-third of a cent for every pound. In France many a farm is less than 100 by 200 feet.

All this will be a revelation to our American farmers, whose farms run into the thousand acres, and whose single fields would include a thousand French farms. No American can live the pinched and ignorant life of the French peasant, or so strip his home or oppress his wife. His fortune is cast in larger mould and his sphere is happier. But there are many things in farm-economy and in exact husbandry that our farmers can learn from the Frenchmen. It has long been a saying, with more truth than grace perhaps, that a dozen New England farmers could grow rich on the wastings of a southern plantation or a western range. It is likely that a French peasant could grow rich on the wastings of a New England farm. With our open climate, abundant seasons and exhaustless acres, we have small need of the pinched economy of the New England farm, and none of the meanness of the French peasantry—but there is much in the farm management of each that we might learn with profit. In the meantime the article will print elsewhere will stand as a revelation of the life of the most prosperous peasantry on earth—who make up the richest nation.

THE WHISKY RING REFORMER.

It is hardly necessary to notice the capping of the crank who edits the Courier-Journal or any of his crazy ideas; but sometimes he makes himself so ridiculous, when he gets on the subject of protection for his whisky ring we cannot help it. Here is a specimen. He says:

The men who, in open defiance of party discipline joined the republicans to defeat the Morrison bill, are actively at work striving again to prevent any real reform in the tariff. At Chicago they sent a force to destroy the Ohio platform and were beaten. Next they tried to overturn the words "exclusively for the purposes of government economically administered," and were again defeated. Still they refuse acquiescence, and are laboring to divide the party on every question.

THE approaching visit of the noted reviser, Mr. Moody, to Richmond in January has drawn out a sensational card from Mr. B. D. Core, a well known citizen. Mr. Core states that Moody in the course of a sermon delivered in 1876 spoke of Lee and Jackson being devoid of every honorable characteristic. He pronounces them in their religious character worse than the followers of Mohammed, and in their moral lives he said the like of Lee and Jackson was white as the driven snow. He then proceeded to clothe General Grant in all the grandeur of a god. Mr. Core asks Virginians if they are prepared to welcome and have a man who spoke of Lee and Jackson in such terms.

Old man Evans has written a begging letter in which he announces that he ought to be elected senator from New York. There is no doubt that the office would give Evans tremendous lobby privileges.

It is now in order for the Courier-Journal to announce that Mr. Randall has spoiled Editor Watterson's Christmas dinner.

POLITICAL NOTES.

WILL HARMONIOUS RELATIONS EVER BE RESTORED BETWEEN GOVERNOR J. P. ST. JOHN AND THE GRAND OLD?

IT is said that Senators Beck, Logan, Van Wyk, Palmer and Vance all wear number nine ten dollars.

THE FIGHT BETWEEN SENSATOR LOGAN AND CURTIS, OF THE CHICAGO INTER-OCean, IS A CASE OF DOG EAT DOG.

IT costs about 45 cents per gallon to make the best quality of whiskey. Those who are accustomed to pay ten or fifteen cents for "two fingers" of the fluid can make their own estimate of the profit that somebody makes of their unfortunate appetite.

THE COMPANY FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF HAMPSHIRE CHEESE IS PREPARING TO INCORPORATE HERE BACKED BY GERMAN CAPITAL. THE COMPANY WILL LOOK LIKE MAPLE SYRUP AND HAVE ALL THE PUNGENCY AND OTHER GOOD QUALITIES OF AMERICAN CHEESE. IT IS PROMISED, TOO, THAT ONE UNDERTAKER THE COMPANY WILL FURNISH LIQUID DUPLICATES OF ALL THE FINE CHEESES.

BOSTON HAS IN CONTEMPLATION THE BUILDING OF A HOUSE WITH A SEAT CAPACITY OF 3,000 OR 5,000, WHICH SHALL BE IN ALL RESPECTS AND ECONOMIC PROPORTIONS EQUAL TO ASYLUMS OF THE KIND IN THE COUNTRY. IN THIS HALL THE GREAT ORGAN IS TO BE PLACED, UNSTRUCTURED AND WITH ADJUSTABLE PIPES, SO AS TO MAKE IT THE LARGEST AND MOST DISCRETE ORGAN IN THE WORLD.

GERMANS, WHO HAVE HITHERTO BEEN BLIND TO THE FACT THAT ALL WORK AND NO PLAY SYSTEM OF HIGH SCHOOLS HAS RESULTED IN MAKING MORE THAN HALF OF THE EDUCATED CLASSES SHORTSIGHTED, ARE NOW AWAKENING TO THE FACT AND ARE MAKING A MOVE TO GIVE THEIR CHILDREN MORE EXERCISE. THE AGENT OF MR. BLAINE'S "TWENTY YEARS OF CONGRESS" FOR NEW YORK AND BROOKLYN IS ANTHONY FOR THE STATEMENT THAT 113,000 COPIES OF THE FIRST VOLUME HAVE BEEN SOLD UP TO THIS TIME.

GOV. HOADLY, IN HIS FORTHCOMING MESSAGE TO THE OHIO LEGISLATURE, WILL RECOMMEND THE SUBMISSION OF AN AMENDMENT TO THE STATE CONSTITUTION PERMITTING THE ENACTMENT OF A LAW LICENSING LABOR SELLING.

GENERAL SHERMAN'S TERM IN THE SENATE EXPired on March 3d, 1887. THERE IS REASON TO BELIEVE THAT THAT DATE HE WILL RE-ELECT HIMSELF.

THE AGENT OF MR. BLAINE'S "TWENTY YEARS OF CONGRESS" FOR NEW YORK AND BROOKLYN IS ANTHONY FOR THE STATEMENT THAT 113,000 COPIES OF THE FIRST VOLUME HAVE BEEN SOLD UP TO THIS TIME.

WE REPEAT THAT YOUR UNCLE ALLEN G. THURMAN WOULD LOOK WELL IN CLEVELAND'S CABINET. IF WE ARE ABSOLUTELY COMPelled TO PUT UP WITH A WESTERN MAN, HE IS TO BE VERY DEEP IN THE MIRE, AND THE BLAINE GANG REFUSING TO PAY HIS CAMPAIGN EXPENSES AS THEY HAD PROVIDED.

IT COSTS ABOUT 45 CENTS PER GALLON TO MAKE THE BEST QUALITY OF WHISKEY. THOSE WHO ARE ACCUSTOMED TO PAY TEN OR FIFTEEN CENTS FOR "TWO FINGERS" OF THE FLUID CAN MAKE THEIR OWN ESTIMATE OF THE PROFIT THAT SOMEBODY MAKES OF THEIR UNFORTUNATE APPETITE.

SECTION FUTURE.
Court of the Recent Important Court at Raleigh, North Carolina, there has been before the United States a case which involved speculations in cotton futures, says a cablegram, telegram to the Charle-ton Post, of New York, who were John W. Hurdal and John De-Long, of Wilmington, who Buller & Son, and J. L. Shaw, represented for money paid out by on speculations on his account in cotton exchange, amounting to what was made that the transactions closed the following facts: In 1880 for eight days $500 lots of cotton were traded. The cotton speculators were served with notices having no funds of Covington's name sold to cover, and passed over to the other parties, who in turn, the last holder, were upon warehouse orders and so on, until the speculating by differences. That the intention of receiving actual payment, he knew it. There was the other side, with whom Bennett dealt know Covington's illegal intent. Bus speculations were enforceable of Mr. Fielding, president, Mr.
Mr. Murchison and other members of the board, and are contracts and that thousands delivered upon such contracts not to pay the cost of the cotton in seven months charged by the jury as the day opened with the occasional blowing of a horn and the firing of a large crackle which sounded as an echo in the distance.
The weather was damp and cloudy, but later in the morning the sun shone brightly. A general and made the city "a merry greeting," after which it retired and was shut out the balance of the day. At the advanced it was evident that all things and the timber had conspired against us, and were determined to assert their supremacy. At ten o'clock there was a general suspension of business, and merchants and salesmen mingled together in one great greeting.
At the close of the day, but little darkness to night, and not a single accident
had been reported.

The day opened with the appearance of a large crowd of people, mostly men, who wanted to have the fashions of the day. One often bears of the severe fashions of "ye olden times," of plain skirts and bodices, fine in material but simply constructed, even for "the Sunday best," and we can but look in astonishment to see the contrast a few years have brought about. Wondering how this great revolution had taken place, I asked for the New York Mall and I was called on to have the house to make inquiries. Having stated his object, he was conducted to a suite of rooms, each occupied by a number of pretty girls, all busily engaged in cutting and folding papers.

When dresses became more elaborate, people in modern circumstances, little able to afford such luxuries, would buy what they wanted up with the fashions of the day. We were at a loss to know what to do, till the inventive genius of man gave birth to that invention, the "cotton cracker." It was a large button, which was taken by a few companies, generally in connection with the size of sewing needles, thus combining elements. Since then several houses have been independently, and one large firm has even given the pattern to the public, paper patterns having absorbed all the capital and labor of the original inventors, paper patterns now tell me how the patterns are made.

With these have been submitted designs of a profession by itself—either made up from paper or shown from a French drawing or sketch. The pattern is then made to imitate the design in chisel, muslin, simply having the parts together, yet being extremely exact to obtain a perfect and well-fitting model from which the pattern is made. The method, to insure a sure and stylish figure, is fitted to a live model, who wears the garment, and the pattern is made to fit the garment, made to compare exactly with the original design. This cloth model is then sent to the dress writer, who carves right and left, and makes the pattern, so that it may be exactly repeated if from the directions she writes, to accompany each pattern. The latter is then sent to the printer, who makes the pattern to hold it when completed.

At the close of the day, but little
darkness to night, and not a single accident
had been reported.

The services at the churches were particularly interesting. At Christ's church special services

THE FURY OF A WOMAN SCORNED.

How the Raymonds Raced to the Music of Whistling Bullets.

Millard Dispatch in the Boston Herald.

Excitement has been caused in social circles by the filing of an application for divorce by Willard Raymond and the subsequent suit of his wife. Both are well known and hold prominent positions in Bridgeport, nine miles from the city. Mrs. Raymond is a blonde of exceptionally attractive appearance, with magnetic black eyes, a rich, warm complexion and fine figure. Mr. Raymond is a gentleman of fine presence and agreeable manners. He is six feet tall and weighs two hundred and ten pounds. He is a man of great energy and is said to be the best horseman in the city. If you want any fine handed

I have still Mr. Raymond, accompanied by two other gentlemen and three ladies, drove from Bridgeport to his home in his handsome six seated carriage, which was drawn by a spanking pair of grey horses. A short time after his arrival, Mrs. Raymond's suspicions were aroused and she followed to Millard, finding her favorite dapple bay and carrying him off to the house of her husband. To Gretchen's surprise, she found that he had got into a party of six, finding that they could not be separated. She then said to Gretchen, "I also drove to the Gretzman house." Mr. Raymond was standing on the plaza. As Mr. Raymond drew from under his coat his revolver, he was shot in the head. The bullet passed through his brain, causing instant death. He had driven as far as the base of the hill descending to the Housatonic river and the Waterbury road, about four miles, when the party were attracted by the sound of many horse steps behind them. They then turned back to the hill, finding that the party of six, headed by Mr. Raymond, had followed them. Mr. Raymond, having his horse and following a broken leg, was unable to ride. He then dismounted and hurried into the hotel. One of the residents had a pistol and offered to pacify her and explain matters. While he was so engaged, Mr. Raymond jumped into his carriage again, where he was again shot. The toll-keeper at the Stratford end, hearing the noise, rushed out of his "keep," and seeing what he thought to be a racing horse, rode his own horse up the hill upon the Stratford side of the river, repeating the scene. Mr. Raymond's horse was shot and turned over in the chase was abandoned, and she returned to the hotel in Bridgeport.

Mr. Raymond immediately took up his residence at the Sterling hotel, Bridgeport, where he still resides. He has retained Goodwin Stoddard as his attorney in his divorce proceedings against his wife, and she has retained Senator Robert E. De-
